

New campus art exhibits

by Judy Bortner

During the next several weeks, the campus community will want to be on the lookout for new art exhibitions in both the Learning Center and the Model Secondary School for the Deaf.

Works by Jules Olitski, the artist who did the sculpture in front of the Learning Center, will be on exhibit in the Learning Center from Jan. 25-April 15. The exhibit will focus principally on paintings Olitski has done over the past 10 years, as well as a selection of drawings and sketches for sculpture projects.

Olitski, who is among the better known contemporary abstract painters, is very concerned with color. He achieves his atmospheric effects by spraying the paint onto the canvas. In the 1970s Olitski began to apply a thick and more opaque paint at the edges and corners of his sprayed canvas. This technique creates a boundary or "frame" which keeps the illusionistic effect of his imageless field of color from seeming to drift off into infinity.

Very different from the abstract works of Jules Olitski are the graphics of Andy Warhol and Roy Lichtenstein which will be on display until June at MSSD. It is interesting to note that Color-Field artists such as Jules Olitski and Pop artists such as Warhol and Lichtenstein, who would initially seem to have little in common, largely developed their approaches to art as reactions to Abstract Expressionism which dominated post World War II American art. These painters were questioning the introspective and subjective nature of Abstract Expressionism which was based on the philosophy that a painting was the expressive recording of autonomic gestures generated by the unconscious. Although Olitski's paintings are abstract and non-objective, they are a product of the artist's concern with the formal properties of painting—color, form and texture.

With the Pop artists, the subjectivity and emotionalism of Abstract Expressionism

One-man Lincoln show set Feb. 8

Actor Richard Blake is giving a one-man performance of "A Day With President Lincoln," a show which has been performed among other places at Ford's Theatre, here at Gallaudet Feb. 8. The free performance will be held at 7:30 p.m. in Elstad Auditorium, with seating on a first-come, first-served basis.

A reception has been scheduled following the performance. All persons who attend the performance are invited to the reception in the atrium of Ely Center.

The special show is a gift to Gallaudet from Lincoln National Life Insurance Company, which is also sponsoring the Lincoln Lectureship Series on Liberty and Equality at Gallaudet.

Board member dies

Dr. James A. Colston, a member of the Gallaudet College Board of Trustees for more than 10 years, died last Thursday, Jan. 21 of a heart attack. Dr. Colston was president of Bronx Community College before he retired.

Andy Warhol's soup can is among the pieces of Pop Art that will be on display through June at MSSD.

Office of Contracts expands to include area of risk management

by Pattie Cinelli

Gallaudet has expanded its Office of Contracts to include the Office of Risk Management in an attempt to more effectively carry out the educational and operational goals of the College, to protect the health and safety of College community members and to save money.

Ralph Perrino, coordinator of Contracts and Risk Management, said the concept, which encompasses the identification, control and eventual elimination of risks on campus, is new for Gallaudet but not for private industry. "Risk management has been predominant in the private sector for years. Private industry has been traditionally cost conscious and has been using risk management principles a long time. There are many magazine articles, entire periodicals and books devoted to the subject," said Perrino. "Through our office we try to manage risk exposure on campus, i.e. personal loss, economic loss, loss of physical property and litigation which could place the College in a position of liability."

In addition to contracts, lawsuits and insurance, risk management tackles preventive maintenance and general preventive measures throughout the campus. "If one of Gallaudet's vehicles has five accidents in a given period of time, we would look into the reason

Some historical gossip

by David de Lorenzo

To continue our ceaseless endeavor to make known the information resources of the Archives, I wish to present the following 'did-you-know's of historical gossip.

Edward Miner Gallaudet ate oysters—not just one or two oysters, but literally thousands. In 1867 alone, he purchased more than 200 bushels of oysters.

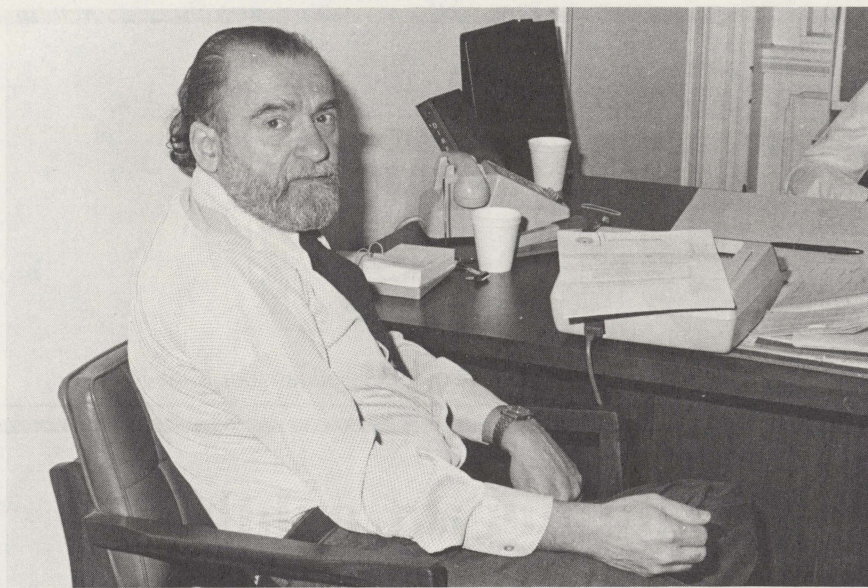

Albert Berg entered Gallaudet College in 1886. The older boys played a prank on him. One day, at the beginning of his first semester on campus, he was sent to see President Gallaudet by his teacher, Theodore Kiesel. Berg entered the office and approached Dr. Gallaudet, "Good morning, Mr. Kissassel . . ." Dr. Gallaudet bolted from his seat and demanded Berg spell the name once again. Innocently, Berg repeated, "Mr. Kissassel asked . . ." Dr. Gallaudet stopped him and ordered him to "Go, get the name straight and then come back."

After E.A. Fay's death, his daughter, Helen, who was a teacher at the Kendall School, decided to edit her father's correspondence for publication. This correspondence covered the earliest days of the College's history in exquisite detail. Using a pair of scissors, Helen neatly cut up the letters into bits and pieces saving only those portions she felt important enough for publication. Being a tidy and well-organized person, she then glued the pieces onto paste board.

George M. Teegarden also kept a daily diary. He made biting but humorous observations about his wife, Celia. Celia was no chef as her specialty was, meal after meal, boiled or fried potatoes. She also complained that she had too much to do around the house. In this particular entry, Teegarden retorts, "What she really does: January 24—Got up at 10 a.m. Went to town shopping. Sat by fire. Ate her dinner which I got . . ." Teegarden goes on to describe his wife's behavior in more than a dozen volumes.

These are but a few tidbits of nonsensical information one can find while doing research on other topics. In essence, really, these incidents remind us that the famous were only human too.

sionism gave way to the impersonal images from the world of advertising, film, periodicals and artifacts of the mass culture. Pop Art further challenged Abstract Expressionism because it dealt with recognizable objects and figures. Graphic techniques such as silkscreening and lithography were well suited to the Pop artists' interest in depicting the harsh, impersonal products and materialistic objects of American society. Because Pop Art uses figurative subjects, it has served to revalidate the role of realism in contemporary art, an interest which continues in the 1980s.

In addition to the works by Warhol and Lichtenstein which have been loaned to Gallaudet by the Denver Museum of Art, a group of Native American artifacts will also be on exhibit at MSSD. From the collection of the Bank of California in Seattle, WA, these pieces include a brilliantly colored robe and masks. Dating from the 19th century, they are representative of ceremonial objects used by Indian tribes in the Pacific Northwest.

Work on the sculpture by Lloyd Hamrol outside of Ely Center has begun but has been delayed due to weather. Before the last cold snap, the stone masons were able to complete a small portion of one of the walls, and as soon as daytime temperatures rise above freezing, work can resume.

The site preparation has been finished for the Clement Meadmore sculpture, Riding High, for KDES. Weather permitting, it should be installed within the next several weeks.

With the opening of the exhibits at the Learning Center and MSSD, and completion of the Hamrol and Meadmore sculptures nearing, the coming months will bring a number of interesting developments in our art exhibition effort.

Sponsored R&D

Grant/contract deadlines

Provided below are application deadlines of selected federal programs that offer potential grant or contract opportunities for Kendall Green faculty, staff and graduate students. More details on programs of interest can be obtained from the Office of Sponsored Research, x5030 (voice or TDD).

Deadline	Program

Library grants

The Office of Libraries and Learning Technologies of the U.S. Department of Education has announced a deadline of Feb. 18 for project proposals under the Strengthening Research Library Resources Program. The purpose of these grants is to help major research libraries maintain and strengthen their collections and make their holdings available to other libraries whose users have need for research materials.

It is expected that grant funds will be awarded to approximately 40 research libraries. Thirty-six of these will be new projects. From an anticipated appropriation of $6 million, the average award per institution will be $150,000. However, this amount is subject to availability of funds based on final appropriations by March 30.

Additional information may be obtained from Frank A. Stevens, Chief, Library Education, Research and Resources Branch, U.S. Department of Education, Washington, D.C., 20202-3320, telephone 245-9530.

Faculty Research

Described in this column are research projects that received assistance from the Office of Faculty and Graduate Student Research. For more details, contact Clarence Williams, x5030.

Hearing impaired seniors

Roger Beach and Teena Wax, faculty members in the Department of Counseling, are conducting a study on the social networks of hearing impaired seniors approaching graduation. Subjects include a sample of 11 hearing impaired students from an institutional-residential setting, four hearing impaired students from a mainstream setting and four hearing students from a mainstream setting.

Behavior examined in this investigation is that of help-seeking and the provision of help/support. Exploratory in nature, the study makes use of interviews for collecting data on the following questions: What life events motivate an individual to seek help? What type of help is sought? What is it about the helper that causes one to seek out that person?

It is hoped that information from this research will be of help to service providers during this time when financial resources are being drastically reduced.

Risk management

why. Is it a deficiency in the vehicle? the driver? the roads? Once we identify the problem, then we would try to solve it in the best way possible to reduce the risk to which individuals are exposed."

James Bruner, Gallaudet's risk and insurance analyst, pointed out that the College, in this period of budget cutbacks and belt tightening, is looking for ways to save money, and there is a lot of potential savings by preventing lawsuits. "If our office can act as a liaison with the College administration, the insurance company brokers, the attorneys and College personnel to answer questions anyone might have, we can then stop a problem from developing into a major issue."

The idea of risk management at Gallaudet evolved a little over a year ago from Perrino's job of handling the insurance portfolios. "I found in the few short months I was here that I was getting many more questions about insurance than was expected and spending more time answering these questions than doing the rest of my job. I discovered a relationship between contracts and the insurance process and saw a need to get people on campus involved," he explained.

With the approval and support of Dr. Jerry Lee, assistant vice president for Business Affairs, Perrino and Allen Nowell, assistant manager of the Department of Safety and Security, then set up a Risk Management Task Force which was resurrected at the end of last year because Perrino said they felt that the campus had become too large for them to know what's going on everywhere. People from different areas of campus were asked to participate on the task force. Personnel representing Pre-College, Food Service, Safety and Security, Transportation, Student Health, Student Life and Maintenance and Operations identify possible risks in their area and discuss the control and eventual prevention of these risks at the task force's monthly meetings. Co-chairpersons Perrino, Nowell and Bruner also have invited two consultants from the Hartford Insurance Company to attend the meetings.

In addition to formal meetings, task force members meet as questions arise. Perrino and Bruner have visited the Risk Management Department at the Smithsonian Institution as well as consulted with personnel in the risk management areas at Georgetown, George Washington and Howard Universities.

The risk management and insurance area at Gallaudet, through Bruner and Perrino, serves as a clearinghouse for information regarding safety and risk management issues. Perrino and Bruner want to share information and their goal is to educate all personnel on campus to be their own risk managers. If anyone has questions about risks or insurance, contact Perrino or Bruner at x5452.

New health insurance coverage and rates

On Dec. 31, 1981, the Office of Personnel Management announced changes in employee health insurance coverages and premium costs for 1982. The effective date for changes in coverage was Jan. 1, 1982 and the first deductions for the new premium costs will begin with the paycheck of Feb. 2.

At this time, the status of Open Season is still undecided. The U.S. Court of Appeals has not yet ruled on when or if an Open Season will be held, and such a ruling is not expected until mid-February at the earliest.

Until an Open Season is held, all employees covered by one of the health plans offered through Gallaudet will have to stay with the new coverage and rates and will not be able to change plans. Employees can, however, cancel or reduce coverage at any time. As soon as more information is available regarding Open Season, it will be published in On the Green.

All employees currently enrolled in a health plan should have received through campus mail a listing of the specific changes in their plan's coverage and costs. Since the Office of Personnel Management has not yet provided Gallaudet with complete 1982 plan booklets, employees will have to use their individual listing of changes along with their 1981 plan booklets to identify how their plans have changed. New 1982 plan booklets will be distributed to all enrolled employees as soon as they are received.

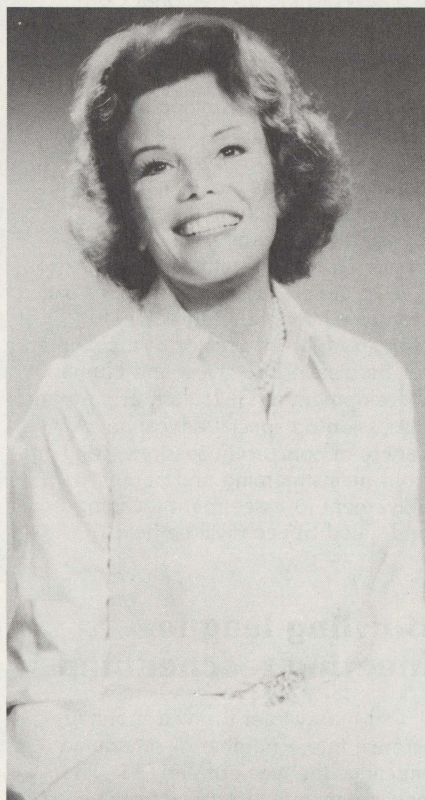

If you have any questions about the health insurance plans, contact David Curtis in the Personnel Office, room B-14 College Hall, x5113 voice or TDD.

GCTV program discusses major in Education

A special videotaped program providing information about how to become a major in Education in the Gallaudet undergraduate program will be aired on Gallaudet television this week. Times are Monday, Jan. 25 at 7, 7:30, 8, 9 and 10 p.m. and Tuesday, Jan. 26 at the same times.

All students who are considering a future career in teaching are encouraged to watch the program on Channel 13. Several current Education majors and faculty members will exchange information and ideas about careers in education on the program and will specifically speak about the Gallaudet undergraduate major in Education.

Deadline for fall, 1982 applications to the Education program is Friday, Jan. 29. For application materials, students may contact either Dr. John Madison or Dr. David Martin in the Department of Education on the third floor of Fowler Hall. Appointments can be made by calling x5400, voice or TDD.

Nanette Fabray MacDougall will chair Better Hearing and Speech Month in May.

Nanette Fabray MacDougall heads Better Hearing and Speech Month

Actress Nanette Fabray MacDougall will spearhead Better Hearing and Speech Month efforts this May as chairperson of the month-long public education campaign on behalf of 22 million Americans with communicative disorders.

The veteran star of television, theater, motion pictures and musical comedy will represent 22 national organizations pooling their resources in the effort to inform and help persons with hearing and speech disabilities. Fabray will launch the campaign during early May kickoff ceremonies in Washington, D.C., where she will release a special message from President Reagan, introduce the 1982 Better Hearing and Speech Month poster child and begin a series of national media appearances.

Fabray was born with a progressive deafness which responded to corrective surgery and the use of hearing aids. Her personal experience with hearing loss led her into a second career in education and service to Americans with communicative disorders. She helped establish Gallaudet's annual MacDougall Creative Writing Awards to encourage promising young deaf writers. The awards were established at Gallaudet's 1979 Commencement by Nanette Fabray MacDougall, her son Jamie MacDougall and the Writers'

Guild to honor her late husband, Randy MacDougall.

She has also assisted many hearing and speech organizations and is the recipient of many awards and honors for her public information efforts. Highlights include First Annual Cogswell Award, Gallaudet College; International Better Hearing Achievement Award, Better Hearing Institute; National Citation, National Rehabilitation Association; President's Distinguished Service Award, President's Committee on Employment of the Handicapped.

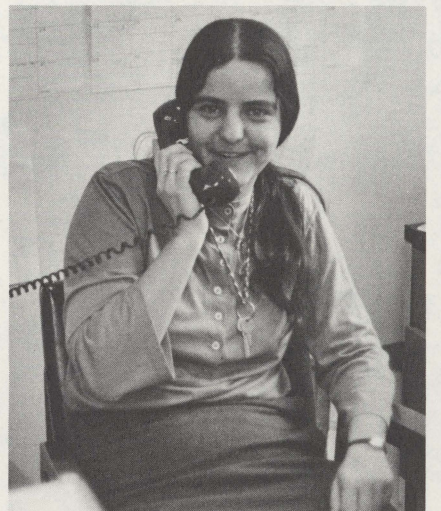

Sponsoring members of the Council for Better Hearing and Speech Month, in addition to Gallaudet College, are American Academy of Otolaryngology—Head and Neck Surgery, American Hearing Research Foundation, American Speech-Language-Hearing Association, Association of Service Programs in Communicative Disorders, Better Hearing Institute, Boys Town Institute for Communicative Disorders in Children, Deafness Foundation, E.A.R. Foundation, EPA Noise Office, Hearing Industries Association, House Ear Institute, Lions International Hearing Center, National Captioning Institute, National Hearing Aid Society, National Hearing Association, National Technical Institute for the Deaf, Sertoma Foundation and Suzanne Pathy Speak-Up Institute.

New catalogues are available

Two new catalogues are now off the press in the Division of Public Services. The College of Continuing Education's Extension Office recently published an extension catalogue detailing the many courses, workshops, training sessions, seminars, programs and materials that Gallaudet can make available for the educational, cultural and vocational advancement of hearing impaired people.

The 1982-83 Gallaudet College Extension Catalogue, the first ever published, explains how these educational activities can be made available on a cooperative basis to schools, organizations and consumer groups at the location of their choice.

The 1982 Gallaudet College Press Catalog of Publications is also available. This catalogue contains brief descriptions of more than 150 printed and audiovisual items of interest to parents, professionals and hearing impaired children and adults.

Published each Monday for staff and faculty of Gallaudet College by the Office of Alumni and Public Relations.

Intramural activities planned

The Intramural Recreation Program is planning a variety of new activities for the Gallaudet community, with faculty and staff specifically in mind. Everyone is welcome to participate in the following programs;

Morning Stretch

Mondays, Tuesdays, 7:15-7:45 a.m. in Hughes Gym, starting Feb. 1.

Diana Rosenburg and Risa Shaw, two gymnasts and current interpreting program students, will lead the group in a variety of stretching and strengthening exercises put to music.

Early Fish Swim

The pool in Hughes Gym will be open from 7-8 a.m. Monday through Friday for people who want an early swim before starting their work day.

Free Play Volleyball

Mon.-Wed.-Fri., 12-1 p.m., Hughes Gym, starting Feb. 15.

Everyone is invited to stop by and join in a pick-up game. No special skills are required.

Department Volleyball League

Tues.-Thurs., 12-1 p.m., Hughes

Gym, starting Feb. 16.

Each department is invited to form a team; combine with another department if necessary. Entries and further information are now available at the Intramural Recreation office in Hughes Gym. Deadline for entries is Feb. 9.

Volleyball Clinic

Feb. 5 and Feb. 12, 12-1 p.m., Hughes Gym.

Bob Jackson and Jean Buchanan of the Physical Education Department will host a clinic for volleyball players of all skill levels. A variety of strategies and techniques will be covered. This is a good chance to get a few pointers before the volleyball league starts. If you stop by, be prepared to play.

Noon Swim

As in the past, the pool will be open from 12-1 p.m. for use by faculty and staff.

For questions, ideas or suggestions concerning these programs, stop by the Intramural Recreation Office in Hughes Gym or call John Seeberger, x5361 voice or x5367 TDD.

Holly Goodling is a nurse practitioner with Student Health Services.

Educators conference to be held Feb. 27

The Washington Regional Conference of Educators of the Hearing Impaired will be held at Kendall School Feb. 27, 1982.

The conference is being sponsored cooperatively by Pre-College Programs at Gallaudet and programs for hearing impaired persons in Alexandria City, the District of Columbia, Fairfax County, Montgomery County and Prince George's County.

Two general assembly sessions will feature a keynote address by Dr. Donald Moores, director of the Center for Studies in Education and Human Development at Gallaudet, and a panel discussion on special education. A variety of concurrent sessions, ranging from mainstreaming and parent involvement to assessment techniques and Cued Speech will be held.

Bowling league meeting rescheduled

Old man winter threw a monkey wrench into a number of scheduled meetings the week of Jan. 11. The bowling meeting to discuss setting up faculty and staff bowling leagues has been rescheduled for this Thursday, Jan. 28 at 12 noon in the multi-purpose room of Ely Center. All faculty and staff from the entire campus who would like to join a league are encouraged to attend the meeting.

MAIA Aerobic Dance Program

Eurythmic Room, KDES

Section 3: 8 Tues. & Thurs.
Feb. 2-Mar. 26
Gallaudet College

Fees: $28

These exercises in dance form are designed to tone, tighten and increase the flexibility of your body as well as strengthen the heart and increase lung capacity. Registration deadline is Jan. 29. For more information, contact Demonstration Programs, room 213 College Hall, x5597.

Spanish seminar to begin Feb. 1

Each year the International Center on Deafness presents a seminar which is translated into Spanish. This year in cooperation with the Division of Public Services and Pre-College Programs, the seminar will be held Feb. 1-20 at Gallaudet, with participants from five Spanish-speaking countries.

The theme of the seminar will focus on how parents and schools for the deaf can work together. Topics of discussion will include:

- What is deafness?
- What is Total Communication?
- How to organize parents.
- Resources/materials and planning.

In addition to presentations from various departments on campus, participants will visit their embassies, possibly speak to interested classes on campus and meet with Spanish-speaking groups connected with Gallaudet.

For more information contact Lou Brown, x5316.

Karen Williams schedules programs and facilities through the MSSD Principal's Office.

National Theatre of the Deaf plans Feb. 1 performance in McLean

The National Theatre of the Deaf, in its 29th national tour, will perform in the Alden Theatre for the Performing Arts at the McLean Community Center on Monday, Feb. 1 at 8 p.m. for one performance only.

NTD will present Gilgamesh, a tale of the half-god, half-man's quest for immortality. NTD adapted Gilgamesh from an ancient Sumerian tale written 1,500 years before Homer.

In addition to the 8 p.m. performance, the Little Theatre of the Deaf will present a special children's show at 11 a.m. and the NTD company will conduct a workshop on mime and sign language at 2 p.m. on Feb. 1.

Tickets for the 8 p.m. performance are $6 for adults, $4 for students and senior citizens and $3 for groups. Prices for the 11 a.m. Little Theatre of the Deaf performance are $3.50 for adults, $2.50 for students and senior citizens and $2 for groups. Admission for participants in the 2 p.m. workshop is $5 and reservations are required. Spectators will be admitted for $2.

The McLean Community Center is located at 1236 Ingleside Ave. in McLean, VA, just across from the Dolley Madison Library, near the intersection of Route 123 (Dolley Madison Blvd.) and Old Dominion Drive.

For reservations or more information call 790-9223 voice or 827-8255 TDD. Tickets are also available at "Ticket-place" on F Street between 12th and 13th Streets in D.C.

Chess festival scheduled here

An all-day community chess festival will be held at Gallaudet on Saturday, Feb. 20 in the multi-purpose room of Ely Center. The chess festival, to be held from 9 a.m.-5 p.m., will be hosted by the NAD Committee on Silent Chess. There will be no admission charge, and everyone is invited.

During the morning's informal games, Russ Chauvenet, the USA national deaf chess champion and also a high-ranking player in the United States Chess Federation, will be on hand for chess instruction. At 1:30 p.m., Chauvenet will meet challengers in a chess exhibition match where he will play as many as 20 or more people at the same time.

The $5 required from players will be refunded if they beat Chauvenet; a draw or lost game means the $5 will be donated to the U.S. deaf chess team to help them with expenses to the IX World Deaf Team Championship meet in Palma, on the island of Majorca, May 23-June 5.

The world chess team tournament is under the auspices of the International Committee on Silent Chess.
